Refugee-Owned Businesses are Good for Central Ohio

Refugee-owned businesses contribute to the local economy by creating local jobs and hiring workers who also contribute to the local economy by producing goods and services. This constitutes their direct impact. The results of the refugee household survey indicate that refugees in Franklin County are more than twice as likely to start a business as the county population in general. Based on the weighted results of the survey, it is estimated that there are 873 refugee-owned businesses in the Columbus MSA employing 3,960 workers.

According to the economic impact analysis, these businesses are responsible for generating a total economic impact of $605.7 million a year in the Columbus MSA. This includes $354.9 million in direct output, as well as $232.9 million of indirect output, and $17.9 million of induced output. The indirect benefits apply to the MSA businesses that provide goods and services to refugee-owned businesses, whereas the induced benefits apply to the businesses in the MSA where employees of the refugee-owned businesses spend their income.

Local refugee-owned businesses are estimated to support a total of 7,851 jobs in the Columbus MSA. This includes the 3,960 employees of local refugee-owned businesses, as well as 1,927 indirect and 1,965 induced jobs across the MSA.
